

ABSTRACT

5 This invention relates to devices, methods, and compositions of matter for the multiplex amplification and analysis of nucleic acid sequences in a sample using ligation-dependent strand displacement amplification technologies in combination with bioelectronic microchip technology.

09865807.052501